BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove it

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The tablets, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects. All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. E. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Miss Graff To Wed John T. Hendrick This Afternoon

An interesting marriage will take place this afternoon in St. Margaret's Church when Miss Elizabeth Graff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Droop, will become the bride of John T. Hendrick. The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Herbert Scott Smith, officiating in the presence of a small gathering of relatives and close friends. At 5 o'clock there will be a reception at the Washington Club.

Miss Graff will be given in marriage by Mr. Droop and will be attended by her sister, Miss Helen Graff, as maid of honor. David Hendrick will be best man for his brother, Morrill Chamberlain and H. Prescott Gattley will serve as ushers.

The church is simply but effectively decorated with spring flowers, with pink as the prevailing color scheme; and the maid of honor will be given in the pink. Her frock is of shell pink georgette crepe trimmed with silver ribbon and girdled with French blue and she will wear a becoming hat of blue velveteen with a black band and pink flowers. She will carry pink sweet peas.

The bride's gown is of ivory white satin embroidered in pearls and combined with tulle, and she will wear a tulle veil held in place with clusters of orange blossoms. Her bouquet is of bride roses and lilies of the valley. A string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, will complete her costume.

After a wedding trip Mr. Hendrick and his bride will return to Washington and will have an apartment at the Shoreham temporarily. Later they expect to go to housekeeping.

The bride's traveling costume is of blue tulle, made with waistcoat and collar of white corded silk. With this she will wear a small blue straw hat trimmed with wings and kolinsky furs.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter F. Smith, pastor of White Avenue Christian Church, and only the members of the immediate family were present. The bride was given in a suit of pink blue silver tulle and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett left that night for New York and Philadelphia. Later they will go to Piedmont, West Virginia, where they will make their home.

Mr. Barrett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Barrett, of Washington. He is a graduate of Cornell, and is a civil engineer.

Mrs. Erna McLaughlin was hostess at luncheon today, entertaining in compliment to Mrs. Jackson Fleming, of New York, who this morning gave the last of the series of talks on international affairs which she has been giving at the Washington Club.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Tracy, with whom Mrs. Fleming is staying, had a company to meet her at dinner, the guests of honor being the Swiss Minister and Mme. Suizer.

Mrs. Sam Houston Carr will not receive tomorrow afternoon, but will be at home, as usual, on Sunday, March 17, at the Balfour.

MME. MATZENAUER CAPTAL PASTORS PREACH ON TOPICS OF THE WAR

CHARMS AUDIENCE WITH RICH VOICE

Fresh from her triumphs at the Metropolitan Opera in New York, where she shared equally with Caruso the honors in the revival of Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete" last month, Mme. Margaret Matzenauer disclosed the wealth of her opulent contralto voice in song recital at the National Theater yesterday afternoon, the concert being the ninth in the Ten Star Series presented by T. Arthur Smith.

Mme. Matzenauer belongs among the few great contraltos of operatic fame who have come to us through the radio. Her voice is a great and glorious organ that she uses with the utmost artistry. Combining with its splendor and its subtle shading the gift of the dramatic artist as well. Still in the height of her career, she possesses a phenomenal range that goes from the most vibrant depths to a high voice of equal value, a voice even and beautiful throughout, that has made her foremost among the "Brunhildes" today, as well as foremost in the contralto roles of opera.

But Mme. Matzenauer in a true recital program was just as forceful. She put the emotional feeling into every song with the insight of the dramatist, whether in tragic or lighter mood, but also with that rare finesse of the singer of songs, she made each phrase a gem of color and vocal meaning that was further enriched by her beautiful diction. In a group of the older classics she sang with a tone of luminous quality, the "Lungi dal caro bene" of Sechi being exquisite, and the curves, the legato in the Handel "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" a finished bit of art.

The breadth of her dramatic declamation was shown best in "Awake, Saturated" of Handel. Here tragic darkness and again brilliant heights were attained, while a subtle dramatist was shown in the French "Le vieux moulin" of Fauriol, proclaiming her the artist of the French opera school as well. In the "Marche de Jeanne d'Arc" of Berlioz, Mme. Matzenauer rose to big dramatic glory filled with tears, and in the "Dawn in the Desert," by Rossini, she had to repeat, she created an awing atmosphere of this song of climax, from its "dawn" to the "rising sun" that held the force of her own rare declamation of the one word "wonderful."

In a group of songs by La Forge the contralto depths of her voice were shown in the impressive "Before the Crucifix." Four centuries were evoked, "Passing By," by Purcell, "Home, Sweet Home," "My Curly-headed Baby," by Gluck, and a stirring rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner" at the close.

In Erin Ballard a rare little accompanist was heard who reflected the singer in her own rare and delightful. Miss Ballard possesses the unusual gift of the true accompanist.
